Scheme Was to Get All Aeronautical Enthusiasts Into Secret Society and Then Shift Them Gradually Into Ranks of White-Robed Klansmen

CENERAL PERSHING has repudiated an attempt to link his name with an offshoot of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc. Major General Charles T. Menoher, former chief of Air Service of the army, likewise forbade the use of his name by the organization spawned by the "Invisible Empire." This offshoot of Ku Kluxism was called the "Invisible Planet, Knights the Duchesse de la Meurthe Cup. of the Air," and its announced plan was to enroll all former military and naval aviators in the United States. The lines of religion or birth were not drawn in the propagation miles an hour at a height of 650 feet, and the plane fell. The machine was a scheme of the "Invisible Planet." Any white man with flying experience or an interest in aviation was eligible, provided he chipped in $10 to the

Once thoroughly organized, the "Invisible Planet" was to lead to membership in the "Invisible Empire" for all flying men who would fit into the restrictions laid down by "Emperor" Simmons. The audacity of the Klan leaders and their recklessness toward facts are well illustrated in the unauthorized use of the names of General

Pershing and Major General Menoher. Statements sent broadcast by Imperial Kleagle Clarke announced that "Emperor" Simmons had consented to become commander of the "Invisible "DIDN'T MEAN TO KILL." Planet" at the earnest request of more than a thousand persons, including the former commander of the A. E. F. and the chief of the Army Air

The projected airmen's organization, however, took a nose dive and mashed against the hard realities of suspicion and indifference. The "Invisible Planet" had been counted on to drop more dollars into the Klan treasury, but the results proved that, to paraphrase, the best from a nervous collapse following her sensational confession last night to the The ambitious plans of the "Wizard" are withering under the glare
